SIX-FOOT RATTLESNAKE—A six foot rattlesnake weighing nearly 40 pounds was shot and killed by Major Curtis Garrett, Department of Rotary Wing Training, U.S. Army Aviation School, Ft. Rucker, Ala., while hunting rabbits near the post's north golf course. With him on the hunting trip were his sons, Stan 13, and Tommy, 11. Maj. Garrett of Lufeland, Florida and (116 Rimmon Dr.) Enterprise, Ala., said he almost stepped on the snake before he spotted it eating a rabbit. The reptile measured 12 inches around its stomach.

Alabama Native Is Governor Of Florida

Governor Claude Kirk, Jr., who calls Montgomery, Alabama his hometown, was sworn in as Governor of Florida by Judge William Dean Barrow of Crestview, who represents Okaloosa, Walton and Holmes Counties said he was surprised that the governor called the special session without first conferring with the legislative leaders. Senator Barrow said he is perfectly willing to go to Tallahassee and do everything he can to have a new constitution approved.

James Lee of Crestview, Democrat, who had been named to represent 16 counties in Northwest Florida on the road board, summed the sentiment of those present when he said, "I thought that was a very good speech. He sounds like a man of action."

Members of the legislature claim they do not know what is in the proposed draft, but some members are pleased that the constitutional revision session will be held before the regular session. Some members state they are sure that they will not have an opportunity to see an advance copy of the proposed constitution before the session opens.

Governor Kirk said, "Constitutional revision is today's problem, not a problem of next month, or next April, or next year. For the legislature to labor 60 days next April to re-write our laws, without first re-writing our constitution, is not consistent with good business like procedure. Constitutional revision cannot be delayed for a long hot summer of dilatory debate. It must be tackled now while minds are fresh and eager is abundant."

Legislators remarked on how Governor Kirk has assumed leadership "like a captain of a ship." Following the speech general reaction among the crowd was, "Well, he is certainly a man of action."

Outstanding Young Farmer To Be Selected

More than forty finalists are expected to compete for the title of Alabama's Outstanding Young Farmer of 1966-67 in Tuscaloosa on February 4.

For several weeks Jaycee clubs have been announcing their local winners in the annual program co-sponsored by the Alabama L.P.-Gas Association and the Jaycees. Approximately 125 farmers between the ages of 21 and 35 participated in the local competition.

Competing for top honors in the state and a place in the national competition to select the nation's "Four Outstanding Young Farmers" are cattlemen, chicken raisers, hog growers and row crop farmers. Alabama will be looking for its first national winner.

The awards program in Tuscaloosa on February 4 will be held in conjunction with the mid-winter conference of the Jaycees and the mid-year meeting of the Alabama L.P.-Gas Association. Six to seven hundred persons are expected to attend the awards program. Since 1962 the Jaycees and the L.P.-gas dealers in Alabama have joined in sponsoring this statewide program to develop better urban-rural understanding and public appreciation and recognition of the business of agriculture by focusing attention on its young leaders.

Hill Named To Join Phi Delta Kappa

Raymond Hill, whose wife, Dor, is the daughter of Mrs. Basil Whitman, of Elba, has been tapped for membership in Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity. Hill is currently studying for his PHD at the University of Alabama. He is studying in the field of Education.

This honor is awarded to only the most dedicated scholars and comes only after years of hard and dedicated work.

There will be a meeting of parents interested in Cub Scouting on January 5th (tonight) at 7 P.M. in the Elba Elementary School cafeteria.

Parents of all boys age eight through ten are urged to attend the meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a Scout unit in Elba. Wayne Stewart is in charge of the planning.

War Felt In Elba Again With Death Of Moore

SERGEANT MAC MOORE
KILLED IN ACTION

Sergeant Joseph M. (Mac) Moore, age 34, was killed in action in Viet Nam December 28 after 14 years in the service. He was a member of the Elba High School Football Team.

Funeral services will be held at 10 A.M. Thursday at the First Baptist Church in Elba, with Dr. Charles Graham officiating. Interment was in Elba Evergreen Cemetery. Hayes all earmarked for army service, is 15,600 men.

Sergeant Moore was the son of Mrs. Mammie Moore and the late J. J. Moore, of Elba. Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Cynthia Moore, two daughters, Deborah and Cynthia, and one son, Joseph Eugene, all of Elba; two brothers, Jack Moore, of Elba, and Glenn Moore, of Nashville, Tennessee.

The January call included some married men, Clark, Mrs. Erle Crook, but no fathers. It will be all of Elba, Mrs. Willie made up of registrants 19 years of age and older.

Thommen, Millbrae, California, Mrs. Richard Weaver, Pinson, Alabama, Mrs. Dwight Webb and Mrs. Grace Walsh, both of Cullman.

THINK SAFETY

Willie Mae Ennis and Hubert DeBose. Nursing Home Administrator Bill Pierce said Tuesday that they had a waiting list before they even opened, of persons that they had to turn down.

POLICE CHIEF BO DUNAWAY holds one of the highly inflammable imported dolls sold in this area during the past two years. The doll Dunaway is holding was ignited under controlled conditions to demonstrate the danger of these dolls near heat.

Dunaway urges all owners of these dolls to turn them in to their local police or fire department at once.

The dolls will be destroyed to prevent someone else from getting burned.

Approximately fifty of the dolls have been turned in to the local police but more are known to have been sold here before merchants discovered the dangers involved and removed them from their shelves.

January Draft Call Gets 486 Men

State Director Hugh J. Caldwell, Jr., said recently that 486 registrants would be called to the Montgomery Induction Station in Elba, with Dr. Charles Graham officiating. Interment was in Elba Evergreen Cemetery. Hayes all earmarked for army service, is 15,600 men.

January's national call, compared to 12,100 in December, 272 Alabama men were inducted.

The difference in the number called to the Induction Station and the number to be ushered into service is caused by a loss of registrants who will enlist, or who will be rejected for physical, mental, or moral reasons.

The January call includes some married men, Clark, Mrs. Erle Crook, but no fathers. It will be all of Elba, Mrs. Willie made up of registrants 19 years of age and older.

Man Forgets His Wife

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. — A tourist, after spending the night at the Chamber of Commerce for help in finding his wife, he couldn't remember which of the town's more than 200 motels they had checked in to.

The man had left to get gas for his car and when he headed back to pick up his wife he realized he didn't know which of the numerous places along the Ocean Highway was home base.

Police took him from motel to motel and hours later, he finally hit the right one and was reunited with his wife.

Serious Talk Ruby Dies In Same Hospital As Kennedy

Anyone wishing to join a conversation in downtown Elba this week must be well versed on football — Bear Bryant style. The impressive win of Alabama in the Sugar Bowl led already strong Bama fans, who KNEW that "The Bear" could stop it from raining, to suggest another game in which the Tide play both the so-called #1 and #2 teams on the same day with a halftime show of Bear Bryant standing in the middle of the field and the crowd singing "How Great Thou Art" for 30 minutes!

Also causing expressions of pride was the Tide's sympathy for the Cornhuskers. They helped every Husker up after a tackle and had them re-laying assistance rather than touchdowns.

The superbly played game could only have been played better by the "Tuesday morning quarterbacks" over their morning coffee and if constant rehashing could improve the details, they are nearly perfect now because EVERYONE was on Bama's side Tuesday morning.

Legion To Meet Tonight

Culver Post 42 of the American Legion and Ladies Auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting Thursday night (tonight) at the National Guard Armory.

The meeting will begin at seven o'clock with a covered dish supper. All members are urged to attend and bring their families.

Jack Ruby, killer of President John F. Kennedy's assassin, died Tuesday, ravaged by cancer and finally killed by a blood clot.

He insisted until the end that he was part of no plot, that he acted alone, that an accident of timing and a surge of blinding passion caused him to shoot Lee Harvey Oswald, Ruby yearned for "class" but found instead notoriety as an assassin of Oswald.

Ruby had been convicted of murdering Oswald and given a death sentence in his first trial in Dallas in March 1964.

An autopsy showed the immediate cause of death was a blood clot that broke loose in Ruby's right leg and coursed through the veins of his body, in the lymph nodes and through the liver. Earlier, doctors had said Ruby's pancreas also was cancerous. Doctors said Ruby's steadily weakening condition and loss of a pound a day for the past two weeks prompted them to summon his family to the hospital over the New Year's weekend.

One witness of the autopsy estimated the clot stretched from Ruby's ankle to his pulvis, plugging up the entire artery before it broke and lodged in his lung.

Ruby's physician said he was a jovial Tuesday morning, had a bath and ordered eggs for breakfast. He said the abrupt death was not unusual in cases such as Ruby's. A lawyer stated Ruby looked 80 years old in his last days. He was only 35.

Ruby stepped from a crowd of newsmen and officers, jabbed a snub nose .32 caliber revolver to Oswald's abdomen and killed him with one shot on November 24, 1963, two days after Oswald was accused of assassinating President Kennedy.

Ruby shot Oswald as the accused assassin was being led through the rear of the Dallas City Jail.

The Truth About Arthritis

For some unknown reason, more women than men suffer from arthritis. In its booklet on rheumatoid arthritis, The Arthritis Foundation says: "It is seen more often in women than men. It is most likely to strike people from 20 to 50 years, but can occur at any age. Children sometimes suffer from rheumatoid arthritis, either in a rather mild form or in a serious and fast-developing form sometimes called Still's disease."

Most often children develop the disease before the age of seven; but occasionally it occurs during the first year. This so-called juvenile arthritis may last into adult life. Although rheumatoid arthritis is fatal to few children, it is a potential danger to internal organs and eyes, and it may retard normal growth and development during adolescence.

As in adult cases, juvenile rheumatoid arthritis can, and should, be treated under a physician's supervision with anti-inflammatory drugs as well as physical therapy.

Arthritis are often victimized by "quacks" who sell worthless "cures" for high prices. Because of their pain, arthritis will try almost anything, often disregarding the doctor's advice. Says The Arthritis Foundation:

"Aspirin is so commonly used that some people feel it is nothing special to take for a serious disease. . . . Because the drug is so widely and easily available, because so many people take it for headaches and the common cold, and because it can be bought without a prescription, it has been downgraded in people's minds. The fact is that aspirin is one of the most useful drugs ever devised, and that it has a very special and helpful effect in rheumatoid arthritis."

"In fact, aspirin as we know it today was actually developed specifically for the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis. In addition to relieving pain, it tends to reduce joint inflammation."

YOU DON'T NEED 1,000 EYES HERE.

"A buyer needs 1,000 eyes, the seller not one." Most people thought that the "Buyer beware" style of selling had changed since past times. But, the many confusing advertisements of firms who depend on price alone to get customers is often misleading and confusing.

HOW DO DISCOUNTERS OPERATE? When selling drug lines, almost all of them select about 30 of the best advertised products and sell them at a lower price than their cost plus overhead expenses. If you bought nothing else than these advertised specials, every one of these firms would soon go broke.

MOST DISCOUNTERS DISCOUNT SERVICE. They avoid deliveries or charge accounts and have as few employees as possible. You often spend more time getting what you want than any savings are worth. Of the thousands of products they do not feature, you usually pay regular prices. On their controlled brands, which are not known to you for price comparison, market investigators have proved that many of them are overpriced to make up their losses on specials.

DON'T YOU ALWAYS FEEL SAFER HERE? Our policy is to price everything at exactly the fair profit we need to operate a good pharmacy. A child can shop here as wisely as the smartest buyer. When manufacturers offer temporary specials, we also have them at these lower prices. Since we make a fair profit on everything we sell, we do not have to overcharge you on anything. And, we never will discount our service.

CHURCH IN THE HILLS

The little frame church in this snow-blanketed mountain village lifts its tall spire above its rugged environment like a sentinel guarding a sacred trust or a lighthouse on a rock-bound coast.

Wherever man has pushed his habitations — in the bleak wastes of the polar region, under the blazing tropical sun, or in the milder climates of the world — he has built his churches dedicated to the worship of God.

The fact that no community seems complete without its house of worship bears eloquent testimony to the universal recognition of man's need of religion.

The village church plays a vital part in the life of the community. The spiritual standards of the people are fashioned there; marriage vows are spoken at its altar, and the honored dead sleep in its sacred soil.

There it stands in every community — the little frame church — pointing to the people to God, teaching them the way of life, giving them strength and faith for every need.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Heart Association Warns Of Cigarette Smoking Dangers

"Resolved, that I will stop smoking cigarettes, so that thereby I may decrease the risk of dying prematurely from heart attack."

The Alabama Heart Association recently proposed this New Year's resolution for the nation's estimated 67 million cigarette smokers, emphasizing that avoidance of cigarettes is a key factor in its program to reduce the risk of heart attack.

Predicating its view on a long-term study at Framingham, Massachusetts, which indicated that elimination of cigarette smoking among persons aged 30-60 could cut their estimated heart attack death rate by 40 per cent, the Association said:

"If Framingham's experience is typical of the nation — and we have substantial reason to believe that it is — then elimination of smoking could mean 40,000 fewer heart attack deaths among Americans, in this age group yearly."

The Association pointed out that the death rate from coronary artery disease decreases rapidly among those who give up smoking, after a period of years approaching that of people who have never smoked.

Other activities that can be carried out to reduce the risk of heart attack, it was noted, include maintenance of normal weight, ingestion of less saturated fats and fewer cholesterol-rich foods, moderate, regular exercise, and cooperation with one's physician to control any high blood pressure that may be detected during the course of a regular checkup.

"We also encourage the non-smoker to make a New Year's resolution never to take his or her first puff from a cigarette, and we believe that parents and teachers are well-advised to acquaint young people with the perils of cigarette smoking," the statement continued.

Operation Santa Claus Successful In Area

The City of Elba participated in Operation Santa Claus from Fort Rucker. Chief of Police, Bob Dunaway, and Councilman Bob Folsom picked up shiny "new-looking" toys of every description from Fort Rucker, and the police department dispersed the toys on Christmas Eve to 85 children in the community. Pensioners and Security participated in supplying many of the names of needy children.

Fort Rucker personnel also personally visited a large number of Old Age Pensioners throughout the county. Most of those visited had no near relatives to remember them at Christmas time. These Old Age Pensioners were presented with previously designed articles of clothing.

The Lions Club presented the Pensioners and Security Department with a check for $25 which was used to buy toys and groceries for aid to dependent children families.

Many other individuals and church groups in the community carried presents and food baskets to needy families. Twelve families with 60 children were remembered by the Baptist and Methodist Sunday School groups and circles.

All in all, it was a very happy Christmas for many needy persons in the community.

The Dimming Light of Freedom

IN THE words of Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, communism in our country is engaged in a "united, hard-hitting, well-organized conspiracy . . . to destroy the American way of life."

A surprising number of ministers, professors, labor leaders, and run-of-the-mill citizens working through communist fronts are aiding them in this endeavor.

Demonstrations, civil rights activities, excessive foreign and domestic spending, and union type of pneumonia. Viruses pressure demanding wages far in excess of what business can pay without raising prices, thus forcing inflation at a faster and faster rate upon us, are all a part of the picture.

No wonder the top Kremlin official told me just a few years ago, "We'll be over to finish the virus must be able to viciously destroy sooner than multiply in the host, as you think." All this is made possible to survive outside the people of America while seeking a fresh host. A virus can accompany this by living with a host without doing it harm, just taking nourishment and reproducing, then figuring a way out so that the offspring may go out into the world in search of new living quarters.

Many virus infections are Malaria, of Yugoslavia, China, and a damaging or deadly disease of the Congo, who would deal relationship is have defeated communism. We fairly uncommon, have promoted such tyrants as Mao Tse Tung, Castro, Tito and its host happens to be

A little help to the freedom fighters in Budapest in 1956 might well have enabled them to note that position and have caused other uprisings throughout the communist empire that would have swept it away. Our money, know-how, material aid, diplomatic recognition, and cultural exchange programs have nursed communism along to its present position of growing strength.

If the lamp of freedom is extinguished, it will not be because of the strength of those who oppose it, but rather because of the weakness and pallid hearts of those who formerly bore it so triumphantly.

With this year's high school graduates expected to further swell the enrollment at college, many students have already begun making plans for the fall rush to campuses. In planning this major step in a student's life, some preparations must be made well ahead of time.

"One of the things that needs to be settled early," says James S. Pridden, Jr., manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Enterprise, "is how to pay for this vital advanced education. And this is especially true if you are considering financial aid through scholarships."

"While there are usually a number of scholarships available to deserving students in several fields of study," said Pridden, "one of the best goes each year to a student who plans to study some phase of agriculture at

Ham To Be Made From Soybeans

Ham that doesn't come from a pig and chicken that doesn't come from a broiler-fryer may be available in the future for consumers.

According to Dorothy Overby, Extension consumer education specialist, these simulated meats are prepared from vegetable protein, usually soybeans, edible binders, and artificial coloring and flavoring.

Simulated meats offer several advantages: (1) controlled physical and nutritional qualities, (2) no meat inspection involved in their use, (3) no problems of bones, skin and other wastes, (4) no animal-fat content, (5) no cholesterol, and (6) savings in time and materials.

At present, Miss Overby notes, commercial production does not have sufficient volume to compete with meat prices but the potential is great. In a few years they may be as popular as frozen foods are today.

While it is understandable for a gardener to admire the huge vegetable displays at farm and local flower shows, it would not be sensible to serve these plants to the family for size doesn't necessarily mean quality. As soon as they're in the house, the plants are taken apart and the blue ribbons for size are taken. The family's praise for the plants is then gone.

Many annuals will self-sow if you leave the seed pods on the plants until late summer and fall. If this is what you want, by all means leave them in place. But do not expect the plants produced next year to necessarily have the big, beautiful blooms. If the varieties you are growing now are hybrids the results of self-sowing seeds will be disappointing. It also does not pay to save seeds from hybrid varieties.

Alabama's new and expanding industries have announced a total capital investment of $320,289,000 for 1966, a joint survey by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and the State Planning and Industrial Development Board reveals. This more than $320 million total was compiled late in December and includes only industries making specific announcements. There are several pending announcements which, if made in December, would boost the total approximately $150 to $200 million.

A total of 24,441 new job opportunities will be available to Alabamians when all of the new plants and expansions are complete and in operation. There will be 11,465 new opportunities available from the $91,540,000 to be invested in new industries in Alabama.

Existing industries have announced expansions totaling $228,749,000 which will create 12,976 new job opportunities in Alabama. Combined, the new and expanding industries will offer 24,441 new job opportunities.

The finest proof of a State's business climate is revealed when industries already doing business there announce expansions of existing facilities. Julian F. McGowan, Mobile, State Chamber president, said, "Leonard Beard, Director of the State Planning and Industrial Development Board, said 63 of Alabama's 67 counties procured a new industry or an existing industrial expansion was announced, sometimes both, which shows the great economic impact this 1966 industrial expansion will have throughout the State."

YOUR HEART ASSOCIATION reports that cigarette smoking's role as a key risk factor in coronary heart disease has been established in the 15-year Framingham study involving 5,000 persons, of whom 400 have died. Other major risk factors include obesity, high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol and chronic nicotine. An intensive risk reduction program is among activities supported by public contributions to the 1967 Heart Fund, being conducted throughout February.

Conversation Piece

These interesting-looking plants are of ornamental flowering kale, easily grown from seeds.

The plant that is shown in the accompanying picture planted in separate pots for use on a patio is a real conversation piece. It's ornamental flowering kale which is best from early September and well into October until heavy frost finally kills it.

Flowering kale seeds should be sown in July, either in pots or in the garden. Plants are brought green when young and the gardeners growing ornamental kale for the first time think there's some mistake but time will rectify it. The mature plants have silks of tightly curled leaves in which pale green, white, cream pink, rose and magenta are all combined on a dark green background. The tones of these colors become more brilliant as the season advances.

Flowering kale can be brought inside for the winter if the plants are in pots or are potted from the row and will continue to be a conversation piece for some time.

To keep the foliage colors bright and gay as they were outdoors, keep the plants in a sunny window, close the glass. Move them away from it briefly only when they are wanted for decoration elsewhere in the house. Water whenever the top of the soil in the pot becomes dry and pick off an occasional dead leaf as needed.

According to Dorothy Overby, Extension consumer education specialist, these simulated meats are prepared from vegetable protein, usually soybeans, edible binders, and artificial coloring and flavoring.

Simulated meats offer several advantages: (1) controlled physical and nutritional qualities, (2) no meat inspection involved in their use, (3) no problems of bones, skin and other wastes, (4) no animal-fat content, (5) no cholesterol, and (6) savings in time and materials.

At present, Miss Overby notes, commercial production does not have sufficient volume to compete with meat prices but the potential is great. In a few years they may be as popular as frozen foods are today.

While it is understandable for a gardener to admire the huge vegetable displays at farm and local flower shows, it would not be sensible to serve these plants to the family for size doesn't necessarily mean quality. As soon as they're in the house, the plants are taken apart and the blue ribbons for size are taken. The family's praise for the plants is then gone.

Many annuals will self-sow if you leave the seed pods on the plants until late summer and fall. If this is what you want, by all means leave them in place. But do not expect the plants produced next year to necessarily have the big, beautiful blooms. If the varieties you are growing now are hybrids the results of self-sowing seeds will be disappointing. It also does not pay to save seeds from hybrid varieties.

Alabama's new and expanding industries have announced a total capital investment of $320,289,000 for 1966, a joint survey by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and the State Planning and Industrial Development Board reveals. This more than $320 million total was compiled late in December and includes only industries making specific announcements. There are several pending announcements which, if made in December, would boost the total approximately $150 to $200 million.

A total of 24,441 new job opportunities will be available to Alabamians when all of the new plants and expansions are complete and in operation. There will be 11,465 new opportunities available from the $91,540,000 to be invested in new industries in Alabama.

Existing industries have announced expansions totaling $228,749,000 which will create 12,976 new job opportunities in Alabama. Combined, the new and expanding industries will offer 24,441 new job opportunities.

The finest proof of a State's business climate is revealed when industries already doing business there announce expansions of existing facilities. Julian F. McGowan, Mobile, State Chamber president, said, "Leonard Beard, Director of the State Planning and Industrial Development Board, said 63 of Alabama's 67 counties procured a new industry or an existing industrial expansion was announced, sometimes both, which shows the great economic impact this 1966 industrial expansion will have throughout the State."

FBI Crime Information Center To Open

The FBI National Crime Information Center (NCIC) will begin operations later this month. This nationwide computer network represents a big advancement in scientific crime detection and electronic achievement in the fight against crime and lawlessness. It also serves as a symbol of the cooperative spirit prevailing among enforcement officials as they unite their efforts to modernize and improve enforcement techniques.

The FBI center is not a total information depot or repository. Rather, it is a nationwide index of data on crime and criminals which, by high-speed random-access search techniques, will provide within seconds pertinent information to a police officer on the scene. This service will bring more and more criminals to justice and prevent fast-moving violators from evading local authorities and "outrunning" the law.

The NCIC is not a separate entity. It will complement electronic information systems being set up or already in operation by metropolitan and State police agencies. When the network opens, there will be 15 local and State law enforcement agencies participating in the system. Each will be directly tied in to the FBI computers, and each will serve numerous other agencies. Eventually, the system will include a terminal agency in each of 25 or more larger metropolitan areas. Further, all FBI field divisions and offices of other Federal agencies will be connected with the NCIC computers.

Since crime is a constant, round-the-clock problem, services of NCIC will be available on a 24-hour, 7-day-a-week basis. The network will provide State and local law enforcement agencies a nationwide uninterrupted flow of up-to-the-minute crime data. If for any reason one of the computers or storage units fails, a second piece of equipment will take over.

One basic obstacle of the system was resolving the many different computers could communicate with each other in a compatible language. A group of line and staff officers from departments throughout the country and FBI representatives met this challenge. They established a uniform set of record formats and codes to be used by all agencies and systems participating in the network. This same group established operating procedures to maximize accuracy and discipline in the system.

The exchange of criminal information among enforcement agencies is not new. It has existed for many years. However, in the past, time gap and the cumbersome means of transmitting such information have handicapped police. The big advantage of NCIC is its ability to provide "instant information" on a nationwide basis. Through this system the officer on the street can receive pertinent facts when he needs them -- right now.

While law enforcement is often discouraged by public apathy, judicial leniency, and other factors encouraging criminality, it can be proud of its own efforts to move ahead positively in the fight against crime. I feel the NCIC is a distinct step in the right direction. It will materially assist law enforcement in its responsibility to guard the rights and lives of all citizens.

COMBINE AT WORK-A weed-free crop and a well adjusted combine are two essentials for harvesting a good soybean crop.

Soybeans Becoming Major Crop In The South

Soybeans are rapidly expanding in the South, and according to Extension Chairman T. C. Casaday, this crop can bring additional income to Coffee County.

For profitable soybean production, there are some basic soil conditions that must be met, Casaday points out.

"First of all," he says, "soybeans do best on soils that can produce good yields unless lime is applied," he says, "Research at Auburn University shows that lime applied to produce profitable yields on land where crops fail."

Lime is also necessary on many fields in Coffee County for producing high soybean yields. "Exceedingly acid fields with a pH of 5.2 or below cannot produce top yields unless lime is applied," he says, "Research at Auburn University shows that lime applied to produce profitable yields on land where crops fail."

MOORESVILLE POST OFFICE

When you visit Alabama's most famous post office at Mooresville, you don't have to worry about watching for traffic lights, slipping on steep steps or remembering combinations to tightly-locked metal call boxes.

Reason: There aren't any. Set between two thriving cities, Decatur and Huntsville, Mooresville is a pocket of tradition featuring ante-bellum mansions, quaint cottages and the original post office which has served one of Alabama's oldest incorporated towns for almost 150 years.

North Alabama pioneers took rough-hewn timbers and built their own post office. Many of their descendants still pick up mail from the same wooden boxes used by the first residents who rented them. Chartered in 1818, Mooresville has boasted many famous residents including Thomas Bibb, second governor of Alabama.

Bibb built Belle Mina, one of Mooresville's handsome homes. In 1826, its massive columns have centers of enduring poplar logs.

Two other town landmarks are Leftwich House and McCrary House. Built in 1840, the McCrary mansion has an outside kitchen and a log smokehouse. Once a general store, the two-story Leftwich was reconstructed in the 1940's.

Mooresville also has many smaller cottages and several famous churches. Most of the cottages look much as they did a century ago.

General James A. Garfield preached several sermons in one of the town's white framed churches during the War Between the States. He later became the 20th President of the United States. Visitors can see Garfield's Bible inside the church, which was the first Church of Christ established in Alabama. Mooresville's Methodist Church, built about 1850, has a separate gallery once used by slaves.

Mooresville, a delightful page from the past.

The boys and girls of the New Hope 4-H Elementary Club met together December 7, 1966. The lesson on manners was given by Miss Sanders and Mr. Dan Presley.

The meeting was adjourned until the next meeting in January.

Poison Is Available In Every Alabama Household

The average Alabama home contains enough unlabeled poison to kill an entire family!

A startling statement, isn't it? But think for a minute or two about your home and you'll realize the truth in it.

That bottle of household ammonia under the kitchen sink, the permanent wave lotion on the stool in the bathroom and the soft drink bottle full of gasoline on the back porch are all as dangerous as a container marked POISON—if a child gets to them.

"This is something we warn people about day after day," says Talmadge Balch, Auburn University pesticide specialist. "But I guess it's just like pouring water on a duck's back, because we still have more than 3,000 accidental poisonings in Alabama each year."

Fortunately, only a small number of these are recorded among the more than 1,600 accidental poisonings deaths in the United States each year.

What does the Extension Service specialist suggest to prevent some of these needless accidents?

"Make sure the most common household chemicals such as soaps and

Farm Families Spend Less

For Groceries

Farm families aren't growing as much of their own food as they once did, but it's still enough to make a big difference in the weekly grocery bill.

This fact was shown in recent studies conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture comparing food costs of urbanites with those of farm families.

Dorothy Overbey, Extension consumer education specialist, notes that urban households spent an average of $11 per person per week for food, compared to $9 for farm families.

The Elba Clipper

First Woman Governor Takes Office Monday

Lurleen Wallace will become Alabama's first woman governor in what promises to be the biggest show that any state has ever taken place before in the State of Alabama. She becomes Alabama's first, and the nation's third woman governor next Monday.

There'll be 195 bands, 90 floats and an average of four automobiles per county for dignitaries. That's 27 more bands than the total that feted her husband four years ago, but three fewer floats than were present at the George Wallace inauguration.

The day-long ceremonies will begin with a traditional prayer breakfast at 7:45. It will be followed by the parade at 9:30 a. m., an event expected to last five hours. In the parade of county, Tuscaloosa will come first because that's Mrs. Wallace's home county. Barbour is second because that's her husband's home, and Montgomery is third because they both live there now. The rest of the counties will have floats in the order in which they were created.

There'll be no official ball after the speeches and parade are over, instead, any revelry will occur at private parties, including an invitation — only affair sponsored by members of the Legislature.

The Chief Justice of the Alabama Supreme Court, Ed Livingston, will administer the oath, using the traditional Bible to which Jefferson Davis pledged himself to the Confederacy. her inauguration a black cashmere suit, a pillbox hat of the same material. She also will wear a single strand of pearls, an anniversary gift from her husband, and diamond eardrums. His Christmas gift this year, Five-year-old Lee will wear her mother's inauguration dress, a velvet dress, camel Cheetah and matching visored hat. Sixteen-year-old Pat, 16, will wear a burgundy suit, and George Jr. will wear a new dark suit. No announcement has been made as to what her husband will wear, nor has her married daughter, Bobbi Jo (Mrs. James Parsons), a University of Alabama student, said what she had decided upon. Mrs. Wallace has announced

Mrs. Albert Brewer, wife of the Lieutenant Governor, and wives of cabinet members to help her at mansion hostesses, she has stated.

Mrs. Wallace said she could possibly enjoy an inaugural ball, knowing her men in Vietnam are dying on the battlefields. As a small gesture of her personal appreciation for their sacrifices she requested that her inauguration be dedicated to them. She also has stated that she and her husband would not be attending the party the Legislature is having but would receive informally in the governor's office after the inauguration.

It is reported that Mrs. Wallace's health is excellent and that she is grateful that early detection and treatment rid her of the malignancy she suffered last year.

Her first official appearance following the inauguration will be January 17 when she addresses the Legislature and her first trip will be with her husband to attend the inauguration January 19 of Governor Robert McNeil of South Carolina. Her first social engagement is a reception at the mansion for the Alabama Mothers' March of Dimes, which she has long been actively interested.

Governor George Wallace and Governor-elect Lurleen Wallace will ride in the lead car along with Lieutenant Governor Elbert Brewer, just behind the motorcycle escort. The governor's party, with the Wallace children riding in the second car just behind their parents. Then will come autos carrying constitutional officers who will be followed by the 31st (Dixie) Division band and state Army and Air National Guard troops. At the end of the first parade division, Mrs. Wallace has assigned a place of honor for the young people who aided her campaign for the governorship. After the first three Dismukes Ford is announcing their formal opening in their beautiful new building in Enterprise for this week-end. The Ford agency is owned by Herman Dismukes, an Elba native.

After several years in military service, serving three months overseas during World War II, he returned to Elba and accepted the dealership as Kaiser-Frazer agent, after which he went into the automobile business in Troy, for seven and one-half years, after which he was a salesman with a Ford dealer for two and one-half years, then sales manager for two and one-half years prior to his appointment as Ford Dealer in Enterprise in May 1960.

Herman Dismukes was born at New Hope in Coffee County, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Dismukes, now long-time residents of Elba. He is a member of the Baptist Church and is very active in all civic affairs. He is now serving as director of the Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Enterprise Retail Merchants Association; director of the Enterprise Coffee Club, trustee VFW Club; member American Legion; director of the Elba Ford Dealers Association; and director Alabama Automobile Dealers Association.

Dismukes married the former Madeline Fuller of Elba and they have one son, Herman Jr., known as "Bugs" and one daughter, Lynn.

The new Dismukes Ford building is extremely large, very convenient, and has unlimited parking space. It is located on the by-pass out of Enterprise on the Dothan highway.

They are inviting everyone to visit their place during the week-end and to register for the "Free" used car display they are giving away Saturday afternoon. Refreshments will be served during the three day open house.

The dealership is expected to handle sales of well over 1,000 cars and trucks a year, and is designed to fill sales and service needs for additional customers with anticipated growth.
